Re: 122 W. Grand River Ave. Williamston, MI 48895

Dear John,

It has been a pleasure speaking with you regarding the building you represent on Grand River in Williamston. As we have discussed, I represent a Livingston County Owner/Developer who has an interest in buying and improving the storefront in Williamston. Dave Nidzgorski is the principal of M&M Holdings, LLC who has a track record of buying properties, improving the properties, and raising values, primarily in Brighton, MI.

Dave and his wife recently had dinner in Williamston and were able to walk around the town. Since then, he has been back several times. I think he was very impressed with the feel of the town and what they are doing to make it a vibrant community. I believe he wants to be a part of improving the downtown fabric by; buying the storefront, demolishing the interior to expose the brick, improve the exterior facade and handle the foundation, roof and mechanical issues, in an effort to attract a quality tenant. We have recently submitted an offer to purchase the property. The owners estimate the required improvement costs will exceed the $50,000 amount offered for acquisition.

I am attaching several of M&M Holdings recent projects. If you would like more information or have any questions, please feel free to give me a call.

Sincerely, Rescue LLC

Geoffrey Greeneisen

То:	Ingham County Land Bank Board Members
From:	Dawn Van Halst, Interim Executive Director
Subject:	Request to purchase 1145 S Grand Avenue, 1023 S Pennsylvania Avenue, and 301 S Hosmer Street by DW Sheets Housing

As part of a "trial" program (Regain & Revitalize) DW Sheets Housing and 12 other individuals/organizations were invited to bid on 6 residential structures owned by the Land Bank in the City of Lansing. DW Sheets Housing was the high bidder on 3 of the 6 properties listed for sale. DW Sheets Housing was the highest bidder on 1145 S Grand Avenue at $14,000; 1023 S Pennsylvania Avenue at $15,000; and 301 S Hosmer Street at $5,500. DW Sheets Housing intends to fully rehabilitate the homes, register them with the City of Lansing as rentals and then rent them to qualified tenants. The Land Bank's Policies, Priorities, and Procedures state that residential land transfers shall not be used as rental properties. It further states that any deviations from policies must be approved by the Land Bank's Board of Directors. In your packet, you will find the preliminary guidelines to the Regain and Revitalize Program, as well as the properties offered for sale.

The Land Bank received title to 1023 S. Pennsylvania Avenue, Lansing, MI (Parcel ID #: 33-01-01-22-130-051) through local rejection in 2012 and current costs into the property total $1,200 in maintenance.

The Land Bank purchased 1145 S. Grand Avenue, Lansing, MI (Parcel ID #: 33-01-01-21-258-050) in 2010 as part of the NSP2 Program on behalf of the City of Lansing and it was removed from the program due to high renovation costs and was unable to be demolished because the home is located in a potential historic district. Current costs into the home are $30,500 in acquisition and maintenance.

The Land Bank received title to 301 S. Hosmer Street, Lansing MI (Parcel ID #: 33-01-01-15-310-001) through local unit rejection in 2016 and current costs into the property are $640 in maintenance.

Staff Recommendation: Staff recommends approval of the sale of 1145 S Grand Avenue, 1023 S Pennsylvania Avenue, and 301 S Hosmer Street to DW Sheets Housing for not less than a total of $34,500.00 with a reverter clause stating that an occupancy permit from the City of Lansing must be received within 12 months of the closing.

Regain & Revitalize Investor Program "Preliminary" Guidelines

The Ingham County Land Bank will offer selected residential houses for sale at the current fair market value of the property "as is".

The Purchaser must establish a plan and have resources available to successfully complete the rehabilitation within 12 months. Sale documents will include a reverter clause. After 12 months, if the property has not been "improved" to City of Lansing Building Code, the ICLB will reclaim ownership.

A Rehabilitation Plan, should include, but not limited to:

- ➤ List of repairs/changes with corresponding costs.
- > Timeframe and/or schedule of rehab.
- Show track record of outcomes for previous projects.
- Show financial capability, such as copies of current bank statements.

If rehabilitated property is intended for homeowner occupancy, Purchaser will be required to sign a Homeowner Occupancy Covenant. Preference will be given to Purchaser, and may include a credit up to 25% of the list price.

If renovated for rental purposes, approval will need to be obtained from the ICLB Board of Directors.

Property needs to be revitalized to City of Lansing Building Code and final inspections approved. Project is considered complete when it passes all Final Inspections, and/or is registered as a rental.

4-star energy efficiency preferred.

City of Lansing Lead Safe Lansing Program may be available.

Properties may or may not have utilities on.

** ICLB may request to inspect property at the end of the project and review final permits. Please contact ICLB at completion.

The Ingham County Land Bank is dedicated to improving the quality of our neighborhoods, strengthening our communities and innovative concepts to homeownership.

INGHAM COUNTY LAND BANK AUTHORITY

RESOLUTION TO REQUEST OF THE INGHAM COUNTY BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS A RENEWED THREE YEAR AGREEMENT FOR CAPACITY BUILDING FUNDING FOR THE INGHAM COUNTY LAND BANK FAST TRACK AUTHORITY

RESOLUTION #17-

WHEREAS, the Land Bank Fast Track Act, 2003 PA 258, being MCL 124.751 et seq., ("the Act") establishes the State Land Bank Fast Track Authority; and

WHEREAS, the Act allows a foreclosing governmental unit, such as the Ingham County Treasurer, to enter into an intergovernmental agreement with the State Land Bank Fast Track Authority providing for the exercise of the powers, duties, functions, and responsibilities of an authority under the Act, and for the creation of a County Land Bank Fast Track Authority (the "Authority") to exercise those functions; and

WHEREAS, the Ingham County Treasurer, with Ingham County Board of Commissioners approval, has entered into such an intergovernmental agreement under the Act; and

WHEREAS, the Land Bank has grown to be a significant economic development tool in Ingham County and is the major public responder to the plight of property thrown into tax foreclosure; and

WHEREAS, the need exists for capacity at the Land Bank to deal with the growing inventory of tax foreclosed properties; and

WHEREAS, the steady incidence of tax delinquency, forfeiture and foreclosure while increasing the responsibilities placed upon the Land Bank is also increasing the revenue to the County Treasurer's Delinquent Tax Revolving Fund for tax years through 2020; and

WHEREAS, the Land Bank has significant physical assets with value to unlock and redeploy in the future, but faces property management and disposition challenges currently.

THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED, that the Land Bank Board of Directors requests that the Ingham County Board of Commissioners authorizes an annual transfer of $400,000 for the 2018-2020 fiscal years to the Ingham County Land Bank to be paid for out of the Delinquent Tax Revolving Fund proceeds for tax years 2015 through 2017 respectively.

Michigan property values remain dramatically below 2008 levels

Michigan property values remain dramatically below 2008 levels | Bridge Magazine

Redford saw property values fall by more than half between 2008 and 2016, taking a huge bite from tax revenues. More than 1,200 Michigan cities and townships have seen values remain below 2008 levels.

Property value increases remain elusive

In most communities in Michigan, the value of all property -- residential, commercial, agricultural and industrial -- remains below 2008. Only a few communities have seen residential values climb above 2008 while agricultural communities saw bigger increases. Click on a municipality to see how values changed.

Source: Michigan Department of Treasury

The numbers are staggering: Between 2008 and 2016, Flint lost more than threequarters of its taxable value. Detroit, now the state's second largest city in terms of property value, saw its value plummet by $7 billion, losing nearly 60 percent of its 2008 value.

More coverage: A tale of two cities: Ann Arbor outpaces Detroit real estate values

It's not just those two cities that remain dramatically below 2008 values. It's also Muskegon Heights and Saginaw. Pontiac and Albion. Taylor and Southfield. And more than two dozen other communities.

While property values have yet to recover across most of Michigan, more than 1.4 million people – one in seven residents – live in communities where property values are less than half of where they were at the beginning of the recession.

Those declines have gutted property tax collections and affected what cities can offer citizens in security and amenities, limiting the qualities that make these communities attractive to newcomers. It's also prompted some communities to raise property taxes even higher – further diminishing desirability.

And because Michigan restricts how quickly increases in property values can trigger increases in taxable value, a Michigan law that irritates municipal leaders and their advocates, the financial effects could linger for decades.

A Bridge/Crain's project

This week's articles on changes in local property values since 2008 are part of an occasional series of news collaborations between Bridge Magazine and Crain's Detroit Business. Come back Thursday for a closer look at home values across Michigan.

Can these cities suffering the steepest declines ever recover?

"Under the current structure, no," said Tony Minghine, associate executive director and chief operating officer of the Michigan Municipal League, an association for townships, villages and cities. The municipal league has long advocated for changes in how the state funds municipalities.

For this report, Bridge Magazine and Crain's Detroit Business analyzed the annual property value assessments, compiled by the state treasury, for all municipalities in the state from 2008 to 2016. It adjusted the past values for inflation and focused on real property, comprised mainly of residential, commercial, industrial and agricultural property.

The data show that industrial property fell the furthest overall, losing 40 percent of its 2008 value. Meanwhile, residential property, by far the largest class of property comprising 75 percent of all value, fell 21 percent. Only agricultural land was worth more in 2016 than it was, adjusted for inflation, in 2008. Commercial property is still 24 percent below 2008.

Municipal meat and potatoes

Many communities across Michigan faced the same daunting problem: As property values plummeted after the housing bubble popped and the recession deepened, property revenues that fund city services likewise fell. Municipal employees took pay cuts and furloughs, and paid more for their health benefits.

Certainly, not every city or township is suffering; some have seen home prices rebound and overall property values begin to climb. And yet, only 183 municipalities in the state have seen overall property values exceed 2008 levels, when adjusted for inflation. Most are small towns with fewer than 2,000 residents. All told, just under 400,000 people live in these 183 communities.

For the remaining 9.5 million people living in Michigan, the value of all property – residential, commercial, industrial and agricultural – has fallen from 2008, in many cases markedly.

And for leaders in those communities, the fall in property and taxes has meant tough choices.

"The quality-of-life programs (were) unfortunately one of the first things that got cut," said Tracey Schultz Kobylarz, supervisor of Redford Township, a community of 47,000 residents in western Wayne County. It lost more than 62 percent of its 2008 tax base, or more than $1.1 billion. At one point the township had a deficit of $10.2 million.

Those things that can create community and a sense of place were the first to go, or get changed: the holiday parade, the art in the park. Maybe a city mowed the parks or swept the streets less frequently; perhaps flowers didn't get planted in the boulevard.

What remained: the basics of police and fire protection.

In Redford Township, the town's parks department once had 15 employees; now it has three. Its ice rink is leased to a private company and public events in town – like holiday celebrations – require the generosity of local businesses that underwrite them.

Only a handful of communities saw the taxable value of real property – residential, commercial, industrial and agricultural – increase from 2008 when adjusted for inflation. More typical were double-digit drops in value.

Source: Bridge and Crain's analysis of Michigan municipal assessment data compiled by the state treasury department.

Township employees pay more for less health coverage and haven't seen much in the way of raises in eight years.

"We immediately readjusted what we do here," Schultz Kobylarz said. "We knew that if we didn't change the way we were doing things, we wouldn't be able to turn the lights on in three years."

At the same time property values were falling, the state had been cutting back on municipalities' share of state sales taxes – known as revenue sharing. The Michigan Municipal League estimates that Redford Township received $15.5 million less in state revenue sharing between 2008 and 2015 than what was anticipated, cuts that occurred under both Democratic and Republican governors.

While making its own cuts, Redford officials also asked voters for more money to help with public safety. They approved a special assessment property tax – but that raised the township's overall millage rate, including Wayne County's 9.1 mills, to nearly 35 mills (that's $35 for every $1,000 in assessed valuation).

That's one of the highest rates in the state; for a home with a market value of $100,000, property taxes would amount to $1,750. For comparison, in Brownstown Township southeast of Redford, it's 22.3 mills; in Livonia it's 23 mills; Canton 20 mills.

Schultz Kobylarz, who said the township needed the additional money, said she also knows those higher taxes come with a cost: "You can't tax your way out of a broken system."

And broken, she said, it is. "It's 100 percent broken."

Many agree, and point to a much larger and infamous example of government failure as Exhibit A. Financial woes in Flint, which lost 76 percent of property values between 2008 and 2016, lead a succession of state-appointed emergency managers to make the fateful decision to switch water systems without properly treating the new water to prevent lead poisoning.
Haves and have-nots

Robert Kleine is a former state treasurer who worked for former Democratic Gov. Jennifer Granholm. He's now the interim director of the MSU Extension Center for Local Government and Finance, which helps municipalities with financial planning.

"There are winners," Kleine said, referring to standout communities like Ann Arbor and Grand Rapids that have seen values substantially recover and are attracting new residents. "But there are too many losers."

Michigan's municipal finance structure is so wobbly that those cities that have seen the steepest decline in property taxes, absent a substantial recovery in revenue sharing, are in serious trouble.

Tracey Schultz Kobylarz, supervisor of Redford Township, has dealt with falling property taxes as the Detroit suburb was forced to trim staff, cut pay and benefits and eliminate township services.

"The only way the system we know can work is robust revenue sharing," Kleine said. "The system is completely broken without (an increase in) revenue sharing."

But that would mean finding more money – read: taxes – in Lansing with a legislature that just came close to cutting income taxes.

New taxes are often a hard sell. Fewer than two dozen cities have income taxes, and only Detroit has a utility tax (and casino revenues). Voters across the state have approved property tax increases for police, fire and other services, but there are limits as to how much communities can ask for – and in how much voters are willing to approve.

"You have a system where a community has zero ability to recover," Minghine said.

Without reform, MSU's Kleine wonders what will happen the next time Americans stop buying cars and homes and TVs, when they again tighten their belts and Michigan is facing rising unemployment and sliding property values.

"Right now we're in an economic recovery," Kleine said. "What's going to happen in the next recession? And it's going to happen."

Database: Has real estate in your town recovered since 2008?

The value of all real estate in most of Michigan's cities and townships is still below 2008 levels, when adjusted for inflation, the long-lingering result of the Great Recession. Some areas have seen values exceed 2008, including heavily agricultural areas. But despite a rise in property values across Michigan in recent years, far more communities are still down from 2008. Type in a name of a community or county to find it (Statewide data are not available for villages). Note: These are state assessed values, which are one-half of market value.
